

NEW COURSE OFFERING!!

ACCTG 579

Spring Quarter M/W 10:30–12:20

Syllabus:

Traditional financial accounting is not designed to measure the societal impact of a company's operations. Sustainability reporting has evolved to fill this void, allowing for a more comprehensive lens of both performance and risk assessment. This course is designed to provide a critical analysis of current practices in business sustainability reporting. You will gain an appreciation for the frictions related to both measurement and disclosure regulation as you map environmental and social impacts to commonly disclosed metrics within ESG reports. Planned guest speakers include Microsoft and an ISSB board member.
